

The Poor House was built in at least three stages. The present owner said the first section was built in 1724 and was built of frame. It is the easternmost portion of the house and is two bays long with center door. The entire structure is covered with white stucco. The second portion was added in 1767, as is indicated on the very small tombstone date plaque in the west gable. It is also two bays long but has the entrance located in a third bay to the east of the other two bays. This portion is built of brick on a stone foundation and one can see that there is a water table beneath the stucco. There is a one story porch across the south facade and a small entrance porch on the west side of the house which is the ~~#1~~ third portion and built on the north side of the 1767 addition, at right angles thereto. Most of the sash is 2/2, some 6/6 remaining and the shutters are paneled on first story and louvered on second story. The most noteworthy feature of the building on the exterior is the small date plaque on the west gable with the date 1767
H and initials W L. Possibly there is some connection to Willowdale, not more than one mile northeast of here and which was built by the Haines family.
